5:1-13

As Chapter 5 opens, Paul turns his attention from doctrine to practical living. How does his teaching on grace affect our daily lives? How do we live as people who are both grace-filled and grace-fueled? Paul has an answer...

The story of creation: humanity formed and commissioned to reflect _____
God _____ into his creation

We are set free to join Jesus _____ on his mission of restoration and reconciliation

Legalism focuses on rules _____ rather than the our response _____ to the Holy Spirit

Anything that substitutes rules for relationship _____ is likely legalism

To take on a yoke is to surrender control _____

The yoke of Jesus opens the door to a grace-fueled _____ relationship

Grace makes new, legalism tries to manage the old _____

We are meant to live lives that are supernaturally charged _____ by the Holy Spirit

Legalism restricts but the Spirit gives life _____

A life in the Spirit is a life fueled by grace _____
