

GALATIANS

4:10-20

Every family has a story and a way of “being” together. That was true for the Galatians as well. Paul’s encouragement to them in this section of his letter, and the spirit in which he brings it, provides a blueprint for a healthy, thriving, loving and God-honoring church community.

Whatever you worship will captivate you

Worshipping Jesus changes our heart for the “other”

Do I see others’ failure as an opportunity to bring healing or an excuse to reject them?

Am I letting my “weaknesses” become “limiters” instead of opportunities?

Truth without love is a brutality

Love without truth is hypocrisy

Love tells the truth for THEIR benefit, flattery tells a lie for MY benefit

If I see other’s brokenness as a place for God’s grace to work and our own brokenness as a place for God’s power to work, we become a place of hope and healing – for one another and for the community at large.
